FORMER MAYOR HALL REVIEWS PROPOSED CHARTER

Explains How It Is Expected to Work if Put to Actual Test.

GIVES FORCEFUL TALK

"General Aim of Convention Was to Provide Good Tools for Good Workmen."

"The general aim of the 21 members of the convention which framed the proposed charter for Colorado Springs was to provide good tools for good workmen, to increase the chances for getting good workmen, and to increase the chances of getting rid of bad workmen. None of us had in mind an ideal charter, applicable to any town, we tried to frame the best possible charter workable right here in Colorado Springs." Extract from address by former Mayor Henry C. Hall, a prominent member of the recent charter convention, before the People's Chautauqua league in Carpenters hall last night.

In a plain, forcible discussion of the charter, Mr. Hall showed the policy of the convention in the above statement, and explained the workings of the provisions of the charter. A large audience heard him.

In showing how the charter provides for "good tools," Mr. Hall explained the articles relating to the Council and Mayor and their powers, and the five departments into which the executive and administrative powers of the city is divided.

The provisions relating to the officers, employes and their salaries, he quoted as providing for good workmen, and the recall he cited as a measure to get rid of bad workmen.

City Has Great Power.

As to the city's powers, which are cited in the proposed charter as all those "which have been or could be granted to or exercised by any city of the first class," Mr. Hall said:

"No city of the United States, and probably in the world, has this grant of power."

He showed one instance of the significance of this in the regulation of public utility rates, over which the city will have power under the charter. The city was powerless to change the electric light rates in Colorado Springs during the controversy three years ago.

Should Have One Head.

As to the objection being voiced in some quarters that the Mayor would have too much power under the charter, Mr. Hall said that it is a ques-

TAFT FAVORS LOWER TARIFF ON LIFE'S NECESSITIES

Burden of Government's Maintenance, He Says, Should Not Be Placed Upon Poor.

LET RICH SHOULDER LOAD

President Favors Excise Tax on Dividends of Corporations—House Members Disagree.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Through repeated talks with members of Congress, President Taft has let it become known that he strongly favors a reduction of tariff on all the necessities of life. The Payne bill repeatedly has been attacked in the House debate as imposing too heavy a burden upon the poor and as favoring the richer classes. The impression created by such talk has not been gratifying to the administration. The President has no information in support of such a charge.

Taft Opposed to Tax on Tea.

President Taft is known to be strongly opposed to the proposed tax on tea. It is stated that this tax would yield about $8,000,000 annually. The President believes this amount could be made up by an excise tax on the dividends of corporations or by some methods of stamp taxation. He does not believe the burden of raising this additional $8,000,000 should be placed upon the rank and file of consumers. The President also is said to believe that the ways and means committee of the house will not insist upon the conservative duty proposed on coffee.

President Taft, it is stated, intends to leave all congressional matters to congress and does not intend to dictate to that body what it shall do. At the same time, he takes advantage of the calls by senators and representatives to state in response to their requests for suggestions, his own position and the policy to which he believes the Republican party is committed.

It is [illegible] for the [illegible] upon to point specific votes as to the various schedules.

Tariff Board Idea.

Senator Hale, Representative Dalzell (Pa.) and Hinshaw of Nebraska, and John Barrett, director of the bureau of American republics, called on the President today. Tariff was the chief topic of conversation.

Representative Hinshaw, after an interview, said that while he was not at liberty to quote the President, he felt sure Mr. Taft would not object to the statement that he favored the lowering of the duties on the important necessaries of life.

President Taft, he said, believes the system of taxation to be adopted to meet the growing deficiency in the treasury should be one calculated to cause the least friction. It is for this reason that he strongly favors the inheritance tax idea. The collection of such a tax is easy and comes from unearned money. The fact that special states have got ahead of the national government in adopting the idea is the only drawback to the scheme. The government's adoption of the principle would mean double taxation in some states and might cause some friction between the national and state governments. This is the argument made to the President against it.

President Approves Payne Bill.

President Taft has let it be known that he approves the Payne bill in principle, and he believes more schedules in the Dingley tariff bill should

MANY LOCAL OPTION MEETINGS TONIGHT

ISSUE OF CAMPAIGN IS TO BE EXPLAINED.

Public Invited to Hear Pleadings to Speak on the Liquor Question.

The local option forces have arranged to hold 11 public meetings, in as many parts of the city, this evening at 8 o'clock. It is the purpose of these meetings to throw light on the issue now before the people of Colorado Springs.

The local option forces are claiming that the liquor interests are sending paid workers into homes of the city, who declare that if the license is taken from the drug stores, open saloons will flourish here, which is, of course, preposterous. If local option carries, it will mean that it will be unlawful to sell intoxicating liquors as a beverage in any manner whatever. The local option law is very rigid. It prescribes that alcholic liquors shall be sold only for medicinal purposes, and then only on a physician's prescription. The prescription must be granted by a licensed physician engaged in regular practice and must be given only where the condition of the patient demands it. The penalty for violation is severe. For the second offense a term in jail is a part of the penalty. The penalty for the first offense is a fine or imprisonment. For the second offense the penalty is both a heavier fine and imprisonment.

It is to explain the question to the people that these meetings are to be held tonight. The public is invited.

Places of meeting and speakers for the several sections of the city are as follows:

Central Section.

M. E. church, South, 110 Cheyenne avenue Speakers: The Rev. E. H. Liles and W. C. Johnston.

GREAT CONFUSION IN CALHOUN CASE

THREE COURTS ENGAGED IN UNRAVELING TANGLE

Attorneys, Detectives, Newspaper Reporters and Photographers Spend Busy Day.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29. Issues connected with the long-drawn-out trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, claimed the attention and energies of three local tribunals, a score of attorneys and an undetermined flying squadron of detectives, newspaper reporters and photographers today.

Interest first centered in one of the police courts, where nine defendants, all of whom are alleged to have worked openly or secretly in the interests of the United Railroads, appeared for arraignment on charges of having abducted or received papers from the office of District Attorney William H. Langdon. There was a hearing later on an injunction issued by Superior Judge Frank Murasky, and just before the actual trial was adjourned for the day, George G. Gillespie, a contractor, was passed to occupy the twelfth seat in the jury box, making it probable that peremptory challenges will be exercised tomorrow for the second time since the trial began, 11 weeks ago.

While both sides appeared eager to come to conclusions, the various persons concerned could not agree upon the method of procedure, and the police court proceedings were continued until Wednesday.

The injunction hearing was prolonged until A. A. Moore, attorney for the United Railroads had called Assistant District Attorney James L. Hanley "a lying dog," and then the court ordered the case continued until tomorrow because the agents of the court would not admit service restraining them from searching the offices of United Railroads.

Interest was added to the whole affair when it became known tonight that Judge William P. Lawlor, who is presiding over the Calhoun trial, had issued an order citing an unnamed defendant to appear before him tomorrow and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

SHOOTS SISTER-IN-LAW THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

Father-in-Law of Former Governor Jerks McDonald Commits Crime While Insane.

DENVER, March 29. John Collins, father-in-law of former Governor Jesse F. McDonald, shot and probably fatally wounded Miss Sarah Nichols, his sister-in-law, and then committed suicide by sending a bullet through his brain. The tragedy was enacted a few minutes after 8 o'clock this morning at the former governor's home at 1151 Logan avenue. Those intimately acquainted with Collins and his victim are unable to advance a motive for the bloody deed, except that the old man, through constant brooding over the ba state of his health, had become temporarily insane. Miss Nichols, in a lucid moment, stated that she does not know why her brother-in-law shot her.

Those in the house at the time that Collins committed the crime, in the opinion of medical experts, were fortunate in not meeting Collins this morning. It is the belief of the physicians that they would have met the same fate as Miss Nichols had the insane man encountered them once he had started on his bloody mission.

Those in the house at the time of the shooting were Mrs. McDonald and John R. Gemmill, state manager for the Empire State Surety company of New York, who makes his home with the McDonalds. Miss Olander, the maid, was not in the house, she having gone to a dentist's early in the morning.

There were no eyewitnesses to the shooting of Miss Nichols or the suicide. Miss Nichols was still alive at a late hour tonight.

ADMIRAL CONVERSE DEAD

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Rear Admiral Converse died at his home here tonight of uraemic poisoning. Although placed on the retired list several years ago, he was in active service at the time of his death, being president of the board of construction of the navy. It was under him as chief of the bureau of navigation that the battleship fleet of 16 vessels, which recently circled the globe, was assembled. His service to the navy was largely identified with torpedoes and torpedo boats. He was inspector of ordnance at the naval torpedo station at Newport, R. I., when smokeless powder was introduced into the navy.

TARIFF LEGISLATION PRODUCED DEFICITS

MISCALCULATION ON PART OF FRAMERS WORKED HAVOC.

McKinley and Wilson Bills Failed to Produce Expected Revenue. Haskin Explains Why.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

XVI—THE WILSON BILL.

It is an interesting fact that the two greatest deficit-producing tariff laws the United States has ever had follow d one upon the heels of the other. Men will differ as to the direct cause of the failure of both measures to produce the necessary revenue, but the remote cause was a miscalculation in the framing of both. The McKinley bill put sugar on the free list and gave a bounty to domestic sugar. The two items resulted in a loss to the right side of the treasury balance of over $50,000,000 a year. The Wilson law set up an income tax provision which was turned down by the supreme court, and that resulted in a deficit under the operation of the Wilson tariff. It is stated by Stanwood, most impartial and thorough of all the tariff historians, but who confesses to protection leaning, that the Wilson tariff would have produced a surplus after the first year but for the overturning of the income tax by the highest court.

He likewise assumes that the cause of the vast proportion of the deficit under the McKinley law was due to the falling off of imports after the election of Mr. Cleveland, in anticipation of the low rates to be had under the forthcoming tariff revision, but he adds that even then there would have been no deficit had sugar not been placed on the free list under that law.

Wild Demand for Revision.

The country might well have prepared itself for the sort of tariff law that Mr. Cleveland would not honor with his signature, from the course which events took at the Democratic national convention of 1892. The conservative wing of the party dominated the committee on resolutions, which brought in as mild a demand for tariff revision as one could wish to see. But the convention would have none of it. By a vote of 564 to 342 it turned down the proposed plank, and went after protection and the McKinley law hammer and tongs. It was the most radical tariff declaration ever made by any responsible party.

The events of the year following the election of Mr. Cleveland constitute the most remarkable series of transactions in the history of American tariff legislation. Possessed of a large majority in the House and a comfortable margin in the Senate, the Democrats were forced to make such a remarkable series of concessions to members of their own party that the Wilson tariff law emerged from the legislative mill loaded down with protection.

Passage of Low-Tariff Bill Prevented.

There is a story of a dealer in herring who was asked whether he was for protection or free trade. He came out unqualifiedly for free trade on everything but herring. There were enough men of this stamp among the Democrats of the Fifth-third Congress to prevent the passage of any consistent low-tariff measure. Even as the bill was [illegible]d to the House by Mr. Wilson, it was not entirely satisfactory to him. He said he had found that not all who marched bravely in the parade were found in line when the musketry began to rattle, and that friends of reform had fallen away when a definite low-tariff schedule had been presented. But after it reached the House the bill was amended upward, a process that was continued in the Senate. The number of Democratic speeches in favor of some specific item of protection is one of the remarkable things about the measure. The whole Louisiana delegation favored a duty on sugar. The Troy shirt and collar makers did not lack for champions who made protection on shirts and collars the condition of their support for the completed measure. Some of the southern Democrats wanted a duty on coal and iron ore, and a western free trader said the bill suited him, except that he

OUTLAW INDIAN BAND, FRIGHTENED, THINKS ONLY OF ESCAPE

Crazy Snake's Supporters Scattered Through Hills in Hope of Evading the Militia.

SEVERAL TAKEN CAPTIVE

Lively Battle Between Deputy Sheriffs and Redskins Results in Death of One and Capture of Others.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 29.—Chitti Harjo (Crazy Snake) was surrounded at midnight in the North Canadian bottoms, near Pierce. Three hundred militiamen, cowboys and deputies, were closing in upon him and his capture was expected at daybreak.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 29.—A detachment of Crazy Snake's band of belligerent Indians was surrounded by deputy sheriffs this afternoon near Crazy Snake's home and a lively battle ensued. More than 200 shots were fired and one Indian was killed. Eight Indians were captured and the remainder fled with the deputies in pursuit. There were about fifteen Indians in the band that had taken refuge in a house. Deputies had tracked them for some distance and were informed by a farmer of their location.

Advancing from all four sides, the posse fired a volley at the frail house. The Indians rushed out, scattered among the trees and made a valiant defense. The posse, firing all the while, steadily advanced and soon routed the band. None of those captured are seriously injured, but it is known that a number of Indians were hit by the posse's shots.

No Organized Resistance.

Crazy Snake's band apparently has broken up into numerous small groups. It seemed at nightfall that each was trying to accomplish his own escape, without regard for the grand dreams of the chieftain, to realize which they were called together, Sunday, by the [illegible]. All efforts at organized resistance seemed to have been [illegible] with the rising of the sun.

The militiamen seemed well able to cope with the latest phase of the situation, however, which became evident late this afternoon. They, too, scattered out into bands. They, invaded the hilly and wooded districts of the Creek nation in a determined effort to hunt down both leaders and members of the war party. The wisdom of their policy at once became evident, because before 7 o'clock tonight they had captured the following prominent members of Crazy Snake's forces: Little Tiger, a subchief; Enley Larney, Jimmie Roe, W. E. Taykor, Tom Jeffreys, John Lewis, Abe Burgess, Simia Harjo, who is not related to Chitti Harjo. Most of these were heavily armed.

Which Will Confiscate.

The captives were started for the camp at Hickory Grounds under heavy guard. Orders were issued that the search be kept up and numerous parties went out during the early hours of the night to round up the renegades. As fast as they are captured they will be hurried to Hickory Grounds, which will be established soon as a reconcentrado camp. By this means military authorities expected to avoid pitched battle, but regarded it as certain that numerous smaller engagements would be fought. The Indian killed by the posse was the only fatality of the day reported to Colonel Hoffman. There are numerous rumors of engagements here and there, with varying numbers of fatalities. One story is to the effect that a posse of farmers near Checotah fought a large band of negro renegades and killed 20. This, with similar reports cannot be confirmed. A very disquieting condition exists throughout the troubled district and nothing in the way of a fight would be surprising.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Jones early today reported to his superiors at Checotah that he believed his posse had part of Crazy Snake's band surrounded, including the chief himself. This gave rise to a story that the leader was

SENATOR GOVE SCORES THE GOVERNOR FOR INTERFERENCE

Threat to Call Extra Session if His Views Are Not Complied With Declared Criminal.

CONFERENCE ON PRIMARY

Committee of Three Appointed by House to Confer With Members From Senate.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, March 29.—In a dignified manner befitting a senator of the great state of Colorado, Senator Gove this afternoon excoriated Governor Shafroth for interfering with the legislature in its transaction of business and for threatening that body with his displeasure if it did not do certain things. The senator read his address from manuscript, considering the occasion one of such grave importance that he would not risk an extemporaneous speech or one in which he might depart from the gravemen the time demanded.

It was thus more than an ordinary denunciation [illegible] speech from the floor. It was a clear arraignment of the chief executive for stepping aside from his duty as the head of the state government to try to influence the acts of a body having power co-ordinate with his.

The address was made when the special committee appointed to consider the message sent some days ago by the Governor returned its report to the senate. This did not come voluntarily from the committee, which has been diligently engaged in suppressing the proclamation.

Had no Report to Make.

At the morning session of the senate Senator Burger demanded a report from the committee. Chairman Ehrhart declared there was no power in the senate to force the report if the members saw fit to make none.

Lieutenant Governor Fitzgarald would not accept the view presented by the chairman, saying that every committee must report on matters submitted for consideration. In deference to the decision of the presiding officer this afternoon the committee reported in the morning, asking the senate to approve it.

Then Senator Gove arose, and, in a calm manner comporting well with his dignity and with his position as a senator, expressed his disapproval of the attitude of the Governor. It was, he declared, not justified by any law of the country or by any of the precedents of constitutional government in any country. George III, the most popular monarch England ever had, tried to force parliament to pass certain bills he favored, with the result that the house of lords administered a stinging rebuke. And that was under a monarchial form of government.

Threats Criminal.

Mr. Gove read from opinions of distinguished jurists and lawmakers to show that in America, under a republican form of government, executive interference in the process of legislation by the assembly, was to usurp the powers of the legislative branch of the state government. His threat to call a special session of the legislature, if his views were not complied with, was perhaps not an actual crime punishable by law, but it was none the less criminal. The whole was a scholarly, gentlemanly, well-conceived and admirably delivered arraignment of the Governor for trying to force a deliberative body, responsible to the people for its acts, to do things that its judgment might lead it to reject.

Senator Gove [illegible]d in the same vein, though with less, as he explained, of the culture shown by his predecessor. He declared the Governor's interference is a crime against the assembly, for which no adequate excuse could be given. By such acts it could be possible, were they sustained, for a governor, exercising the great power of his office, to make assemblies mere puppets.

UTAH FUEL CO. PLEADS GUILTY TO LAND FRAUD AND PAYS $200,000 INTO COURT

SALT LAKE, Utah, March 29.—A notable victory was won by the United States government in the district court when the Utah Fuel company paid into court $200,000 and pleaded guilty to the charge of obtaining coal land by fraud.

The company, a subsidiary corporation of the Rio Grande railroad, together with Henry G. Williams, Robert Forrester, George A. Moore, William D. Foster, Elroy N. Clark and Alexander H. Cowie, officers and employes, was indicted by a federal grand jury in April 1907, for obtaining title to 1,440 acres of coal land in Sevier county, Utah, through dummy entrymen.

The validity of the indictment was attacked, as was the constitutionality of the law under which it was brought. Both law and indictment were ultimately sustained by the supreme court of the United States and the defendants were on the verge of trial by jury when the surrender took place.

Plea of Guilty Entered.

The plea of guilty was entered today by J. F. Vaile, general counsel for the fuel company. The court assessed a fine of $8,000 and judgment for $192,000 in favor of the government for coal taken from the ground. The land reverts to the public domain and the company loses the $14,400 fee originally paid as well as the further sums paid to the dummy entrymen through whom it was taken up.

The indictments against the individual defendants were dismissed, as were five suits in equity, involving many thousands of acres taken up by dummies as agricultural land and afterward turned over to the fuel company.

Special Attorney Fred A. Maynard, who has prosecuted the coal cases for the government, explains the dismissal of the equity cases by saying that the land involved had been bonded and the bonds sold through the Morton trust company of New York to innocent purchasers. Rather than refund to these purchasers to the amount of $2,000,000, it was deemed advisable to accept the plea of guilty in the criminal case and let the title to the bonded property remain undisturbed.

Charge of Perjury Dismissed.

An indictment for perjury against Thomas A. Moore, which grew out of the testimony before the grand jury, was also dismissed.

In re-acquiring the 1,440 acres involved in today's action the government is enriched to the amount of $160,000 that being the appraised valuation of the Sevier county land at the present time.

What Press Agents Say

"A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM"

The biggest event of the season is the appearance at the Opera House Saturday with a special matinee of the Ben Greet players and the Russian Symphony orchestra in a musical and dramatic production of Shakespeare's great comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," with Mendelssohn's music. It is most unusual for a fine dramatic company to travel with one of the best musical organizations, and the local engagement promises to be extraordinarily successful

The special matinee is given particularly for the benefit of ladies and children. It will be identically the same as the evening performance.

The Ben Greet players are one of the best companies presenting Shakespeare, and a rare treat is promised.

If Mendelssohn at the time of his musical conception of Shakespeare's lightest and most fanciful play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was himself but a youth, he so much better interpreted the youthful spirit of that vision of love and mirth. It is certain that never have the spirit of music and the spirit of play been so harmoniously and faithfully blended as in the production, which the Ben Greet players and the Russian Symphony orchestra are to give here Saturday evening with a special matinee and it is a successful and fitting opening to the celebration of Mendelssohn's centenary which the musical world now begins to enjoy

It must be because of their appeal to the soul of all generations that the numbers of the music of Mendelssohn's are, the many of them, old and familiar [illegible] Africa strictly belong to the dream music and those which are interpolated, blend beautifully and make the music as it should be almost a predominant feature of the production, yet it was but a [illegible] harmonious and most artistic whole

SEATS FOR "BABES IN TOYLAND."

The seat sale for Victor Herbert's fine musical comedy, "Babes in Toyland" will open this morning at the Opera House box office "Babes in Toyland" comes to the Opera House Thursday evening and prices run as folows Parquet $1 50, dress circle $1 00 balcony $1.00 and 75 cents and gallery 50 cents

One is at a loss to know how to attempt to convey in words any idea of "Babes in Toyland" the brilliant operatic extravaganza which will be presented at the Opera House Thursday with the entire production intact just as presented for over a year and a half in New York and one year in Chicago The delightful music is the work of Victor Herbert which is enough to guarantee the excellence of the offering The libretto is the work of Glen MacDonough, whose brilliant humor and keen satire is well known to playgoers And best of all, the superb production was produced by Julian Mitchell, the past master of every art known to stage management. But who shall write an adequate description of "Babes in Toyland?" Before such an attempt [illegible] possibly be successful somebody will have to supply the dictionary with an entire new set of adjectives. The old ones won't do. They have been used too often to describe ordinary entertainment that they would lack significance if applied to this.

As one watches it, he asks himself in wonder where it is all going to end, this conquest of the possibilities for the purposes of the stage. A year or two ago we thought that the limit had been reached, but we were wrong. Advances have continued to be made, though it is incredible that anything can be more splendid and beautiful than "Babes in Toyland."

MAJESTIC'S STRONG BILL.

If the duel that takes place in "The Man's the Thing," the seventeenth century playlet that is being played at the home of refined vaudeville this week, were to be produced on the legitimate stage by some world-famous actor, it would make him reputation and fortune for many a year Carlyle Moore and Ethelyn Palmer, who play the leading parts in this miniature dramatic novelty, are both performers of rare ability, and the supporting company is far ahead of those usually found in vaudeville It is a "Three Guardsmen" atmosphere that pervades the whole sketch, and the acting, and particularly the swordsmanship displayed, is far above the standard of that to be seen in vaudeville sketches The act is certainly a strong one and will be greatly appreciated by those who love a choice bit of the romantic, worked out in the most artistic way.

Professor Armand's "City of Yesterday" is another novelty that is sure to draw hundreds to the pretty playhouse this week. It is remarkable how such a finished, fascinating and extensive scenic spectacle can be produced on the Majestic stage commodious as it is. A realistic reproduction of the city of San Francisco before, during and after the awful earthquake, is what is done by Professor Armand, and the effects in light and perspective are simply marvelous. The dawn, sunrise and sunset over the city as seen from across the bay at Oakland is beautiful and natural.

Gladys Van scored a hit from the first moment she came on the stage at the first performance yesterday. This young lady is surely entitled to the soubriquet of the "Dainty Delight of Fashionable Vaudeville."

For those who enjoy a demonstration of difficult, novel and extremely laughable voice juggling will be highly entertained by Charles W. Williams and his troupe of grotesque mummies

Carrie McMannus is singing "The Rosary" this week in a finished way, and another new one by Vesta Victoria.

The Majestiscope pictures are a story in themselves and add much to the pleasure of the long and strong bill.

FAIRYLAND.

The great Ferguson, who is certainly well worth the name he possesses as the world's most wonderful phenomenon, or the one man band, and is making one of the biggest hits ever made at the Fairyland theater Fletcher and La Pierre, in a comedy sketch entitled the "Dutch Burglar and the Old Maid" are being well received at each and every performance The two Georges are also making a decided hit Professor Parks is running three thousand feet of the latest moving pictures entitled "The Bewitched Breton" "Ingenious Lover," "His Wife's Mother," "A Prussian Spy and "A Telltale Blotter," this combination forming one of the strongest bills that Fairyland has had since the house opened Children admitted to any performance 5 cents General admission 10 cents and to give the executive branch of the government control of the co-ordinate legislative branch.

McCue Takes Up Discussion.

When Senator O'Connell finished, Senator McCue took up the discussion, also paying his respects to the Governor for his attempt at usurping the power of the assembly. First, he gave the Governor the benefit of some terse English and then he referred to the Democratic party being so seldom in power that the members do not know how to use it when they get it. The message of the Governor was, he said, one of the illustrations to prove that fact.

Direct Primary in House.

Another stage in the obsequies of the direct primary bill was passed in the house this morning when Speaker Lubers named Messrs. Hicks, Garman and Blakey on the committee of conference, to act with two members from the senate. Mr. Hicks proposes that the convention feature shall be entirely eliminated from the bill, Mr. Garman favors the retention of that and the striking out of the open ballot for the secret ballot. Mr Blakey is opposed to state conventions, but believes conventions should be permitted in counties The senate will be represented in the conference by Senators Scott and McCue.

As house members of the committee to investigate the affairs of the state land board, the speaker named Wheeler, Hicks and Hayden. The senate had already named Senators Irby and Skinner On the committee to investigate the prices charged for coal in the state, the speaker named Foley, Howell and Stephens, all from Denver The senate had previously named Senators Croke and Carpenter.

Bills on Third Reading.

Bills passed by the house on third reading. Bills providing for the expenses of district judges, as amended by the senate, for the state fair at Pueblo, $15,000; relief of the civil service commission, relief of state board of horticulture; to protect automobile owners, distribution of funds from national agricultural department; easement across state lands in Denver; regulate practice of dentistry; that leasers of mines must file bond to protect wages of employes, aid for West Colfax viaduct, Denver relief of T. W. Casey, for state home for mental defectives at Fort Morgan

The Governor has appointed Charles W Comstock state engineer

TAFT FAVORS LOWER TARIFF ON NECESSITIES

be revised downward than upward if any should go upward at all

President Taft does not share the general belief that the Senate is opposed to the principle of a maximum and minimum tariff as proposed by the Payne bill and he appears to be confident of the ultimate outcome

Mr Barrett today presented to the President his views as to the effect of the proposed new tariff bill on the export trade of the United States with Latin America

House Members Disagree.

WASHINGTON, March 29 — The tariff question was again discussed in the House today in a 10½-hour session, Not one of the many speakers favored the Payne bill entirely, while the Democrats found much in it to criticise and condemn The maximum and minimum features of the proposed measure were especially obnoxious to them Republicans urged higher duties on lumber, iron, pottery and zinc ore, as well as a duty on coal

The speakers were Messrs. James of Kentucky, Cushman of Washington, Kennedy of Ohio, Gillette of Massachusetts, Scott of Kansas, and others.

TARIFF LEGISLATION PRODUCED DEFICITS

wanted a duty on silver-lead ore, which was produced in his district.

Press Impatient

The low-tariff press of the country grew insistent for immediate action after Cleveland was inaugurated. One paper longed for the day when the American laborer could sleep under a wool blanket once more instead of one of shoddy. Tariff reform started out bravely At the extra session called to consider currency matters, the ways and means committee was framed up, and a consistent low-tariff man—Crisp of Georgia—was made speaker. William L. Wilson, a low-tariff man of the Cleveland school, was made chairman of ways and means. The committee gave a month for hearings They had treasury officials to assist in the preparation of the bill For this they were roundly criticised by the Republicans, but they succeeded in pulling the records of their critics, and therein showing where they had done the selfsame thing and defended it, for which they were now criticising the Democrats.

Halfway Measure.

On December 19 the bill was reported to the House. It covered 140 pages, printed in the usual bill type and style. It did reduce the duties on most things, and provided for free raw materials. Even this was regarded as a sort of halfway measure by the out-and-out low-tariff people After the usual Christmas recess, the House got down to the consideration of the bill in dead earnest. A rule was brought in limiting the debate and providing the machinery for the consideration of the bill The Republicans fought this tooth and nail, and resorted to the expedient of breaking a quorum by refusing to vote It will be remembered that in the Congress which passed the McKinley bill, Speaker Reed and his supporters condemned [illegible] with all the earnestness at their command, and Mr. Reed counted the Democrats as present whether they voted or not. Now he was the minority leader, and his old opponent was in the chair. Crisp refused to invoke the Reed method of getting a quorum, but adopted the course of arresting members in order to get enough together to do business. By telegraphing every absentee of his own party to come post-haste, Crisp was able to pass his rule after three days of fruitless balloting Even on this final vote, not a Republican is recorded for or against the rule. After a week of general debate, during which night sessions were held, the bill was taken up and amended.

Income Tax Provision.

It is a curious fact that the most remarkable feature of the measure was offered as an amendment by Representative McMillin of Tennessee, just three days before the House finally voted on the whole bill. It was the income tax provision. Very few of the Republicans voted for the income tax amendment or against it, but secretly rejoiced at its passage on the assumption that thus overloaded, the measure could never pass through the needle's eye of legislative enactment.

February 1, 1894, was a red letter day in the House end of the Capitol. Ex-Speaker Reed was leading the opposition, and Speaker Crisp took the floor in support of the measure, which was to be passed that day after three hours of debate These two gladiators [illegible] at the end of their fray the vote would be taken. Reed led off in a speech that was a remarkable combination of logic, humor, biting wit and satire At one point he attacked Bourke Cockran, who had dilated on the low wages of labor, by reading another speech from the New Yorker in which he had taken exactly the opposite position. Cockran had said something about the survival of the superior, and Reed replied that if the strong bull of Reehan and a salt water smelt were cast into the Atlantic ocean he would take his chances with the smelt.

Wilson Overwhelmed With Praise.

When Reed finished speaking, Speaker Crisp called Representative Hatch to the chair and took the floor to answer Mr Reed He was applauded perhaps even more than Mr Reed had been. The galleries were packed, the floor and the cloak rooms were filled to overflowing William L. Wilson made the final speech in behalf of the bill, and the colleagues of the West Virginian took him on their shoulders and bore him in triumph around the hall of the House It was one of the most remarkable proceedings ever witnessed there. Modest and retiring in his demeanor, Wilson was as bashful as a school girl and showed great embarrassment while thus being carried around

One of the most remarkable speeches delivered in the course of the House debate was delivered by William Jennings Bryan on the 19th of January If anyone thinks that he was a beardless youth gaining his first triumph at the Chicago convention, let him read the Congressional Record of the date mentioned Washington knew him. The House was acquainted with his powers, and he was accorded unusual honors He was given unlimited time in which to deliver his speech, and so great was the demand to hear him that visitors were admitted to the floor of the House itself a privilege seldom granted to any speaker Mr Bryan said little that was new, for such a thing has long since become next to impossible. But he [illegible] his arguments in that captivating form which characterized his great Chicago speech two years later.

Difference of Opinion Grows.

When one reads the debates of that year he cannot help wondering at the difference of opinion [illegible] over a single phase of the vast tariff question. The Democrats declared that the McKinley tariff had enhanced the price of everything, and that its beneficiaries were using the wall constructed by that law to extort higher prices from the people. In support of this they presented long lists of articles that were sold higher at home than abroad The Republicans answered by presenting equally long lists of articles that were sold in the United States for less than the tariff on them The tariff on wire nails was 2 cents, yet they were selling for 1 2-3 cents a pound The tariff on lead pencils was 50 cents a gross, while the wholesale price was 45 cents. And so it continued The Democrats rejoined that it was the claim of the tariff people that they wanted duties which would make up the difference in the cost of labor and that the average total cost of labor entering into the finished products of the American manufacturers was only 15 per cent of their aggregate value, while the duties levied were three times as much. In other words, they sought to show that the duties levied were on an average three times as great as the whole labor cost, and probably 10 times as much as the difference of cost between European and American labor And so the fight went on, leaving the people to pay their money and take their choice tion of five Mayors or one Mayor, and that the best results can be obtained by having one directing personality, as is the case with successful corporations, instead of having five councilmen all equally responsible.

"The idea is to have the responsibility equal to the power," he said, "and even if the five members of the City Council were all equally competent, it would be best to have one of those five the head of the government, directly in power and directly responsible. Furthermore, we have the recall, which will remove the Mayor if necessary."

Employes Will Be Loyal.

Regarding the method of appointment outlined, which is to the effect that the Mayor shall appoint, on recommendation of the commissioner of the department concerned, Mr. Hall pointed out that this system will make the appointee loyal to both the commissioner and the Mayor. The importance of the Mayor's power was emphasized by the speaker, who cited that, primarily, all governments are for public safety and order, and that the Mayor, both by general and statutory law, is charged with the public peace, so that he must have the loyalty of every officer and employe in the service of the city in order to render the best and most efficient service.

No Party Politics.

Mr. Hall then took up the subject of elections, wherein the charter provides for the nomination of a candidate for an elective office by the filing of 25 individual certificates of nomination by as many signers Each signer must swear that he believes the candidate has not become a candidate as a nominee of any political party, and the candidate himself must make oath that he has not been promised the support of any political party. In addition, no party name or designation shall appear on the ballot. Mr. Hall compared this with the present system, showing the simplicity and excellent features of the proposed method.

The Financial End.

Another clause touched on was the annual budget. Mr. Hall read from the charter, showing that the Mayor shall make his annual budget, based on an estimate by each commissioner, of money needed the following year in his department, and on an estimate from the commissioner of finance as to the revenue of the city for that year, The Council as a whole may decrease or strike out any amount submitted by the Mayor, but may not increase it, or add any item, so that the plan is a check on the Mayor, who is likewise a check on the Council.

Other features pointed out by Mr Hall are those restricting the annual tax levy (except for purposes enumerated) in 20 mills, and restricting the bonded indebtedness of the city to 3 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property. Exempted from this prohibition are bonds for the purchase of public utility properties from which the city will derive a revenue.

Mr Hall did not attempt to take up every clause of the charter in detail, but explained only those sections concerning which some doubt as to the exact meaning and workings has been expressed. At the close of his address he answered many questions as to the meaning of various provisions, and was given a hearty vote of thanks by the members of the league.

Vice President J K. Radley presided.

OUTLAW INDIAN BAND THINKS ONLY OF ESCAPE

killed No confirmation of this could be obtained and it probably is incorrect as nobody could be found tonight who had seen the Snake during the day

Cowboys Join in Search

As the troops prepared to enter upon the activities of the night it was thought that the Snake had carried out his last night's intention of seeking refuge in the Hickory hills, and that he was supported there by some of his leaders

Scores of cowboys and frontiersmen, all expert gun fighters, joined the militiamen in the chase during the day and evening They know the rugged country as well as do the Creeks. These men declared that if Crazy Snake were anywhere in the district, he would be run down before morning.

Despite all the talk about Crazy Snake, the militia officials have yet to find anybody who has seen him since Sunday morning. Their only real knowledge that he is commanding the Indians personally is the information choked out of his son by the deputies when they hanged him by the neck until he expressed an anxiety to talk. The militiamen, though, insist they have the best reasons for believing they are near to capturing the Snake, and ending his uprising.

Chief's House Burned

The house of Crazy Snake near Hickory Grounds, was burned today by Indians to divert attention from the bushwhacking fight nearby in which the Indians were killed. This was related by Deputies Jones and Frank Smith after they had reached Checotah tonight for more ammunition.

George Woodruff, attorney for the department of the interior, reached Muskogee today from Washington, and will go to Henryetta tomorrow. A detachment of deputies this evening captured Sandy Tabler, a half-breed who for a long time has been one of Crazy Snake's aides Sheriff Odom believes he is one of those in the Snake's house during Thursday evening's trouble.

One of the largest crowds ever congregated in the little town of Checotah attended the funeral of Herman Odom, the 22-year-old deputy who was killed in a fight at the home of Crazy Snake. Every business house was closed for an hour The body of Edward Baum, also killed in the fight, was sent to Fort Smith for burial.

Several families have deserted their homes in the vicinity of Pierce on account of Indian troubles.

FIGHT FOR CONSUMPTIVES

Associated Charities Doing Splendid Work, but Is Handicapped by Lack of Funds

The splendid work of the Associated Charities in ministering to needy applicants suffering from tuberculosis, is shown in a booklet just issued. It contains brief descriptions of many of the cases and the progress of patients under treatment. This is the most expensive work performed by the organization and on account of the many demands it is necessary to increase the general fund or secure special subscriptions.

The following descriptions of some of the cases being cared for by the Associated Charities, are reprinted from the booklet:

Mr ——— came here three years ago. His tuberculosis attacking his spine he was compelled to give up his work as [illegible] his tools and live economically. Fourteen months ago he was called to our attention. He was living alone in a shack, helpless and supposedly dying. He was placed at once in a hospital and given such good attention that he is still living. His sister came on from New York. She took a place as a servant and contributed toward his support. Two local churches have made monthly contributions. It has cost $346.18 to care for him. The sister and two churches have contributed $[illegible]50. Should we have been warranted in letting the man die in his shack fourteen months ago to save the $346.18?

——— came here one year ago, hopelessly ill with laryngeal tuberculosis. Had a wife and boy of four. Wife supported the family by working in a hotel. Brought to our attention when wife lost her position. A church, of which they were not members, was interested, and contributed to the extent of their ability. The wife was not able to be away from husband very much so it was hard to get work for her.

A private person gave us a tent for him, the church paid his rent and gave some provisions. We supplied milk, eggs, coal, some provisions and medicine. He was also given two physicians by this office, and a visitor who kept in close touch with his needs. The man died on February 13. Total cost, $39.90.

Mrs ——— came here with husband and four little children in September, 1907. They had considerable money which was invested in business and all lost within three weeks, leaving them in debt. Man went to work as laborer and had his wages attached for the business debts. Youngest child was taken sick and had successively typhoid fever, pneumonia and diphtheria. Called to our attention when child was getting well, but mother entirely broken down.

Physician furnished at once who told us the wife would die if she had to work any longer. Woman placed in house temporarily. A sister sent for. Such help as necessary was given including furniture.

In addition a visiting nurse is sent, legal advice is given man to protect his interests in the business transaction and a visitor supplies the personal element in the relation.

The mother's fever is reduced, the pulse almost normal, the cough which was wearing out her strength is under control. The wife and mother is going to get well. The family is happy, because there is this hope.

Cost to this organization, $78.23.

Mr ——— [illegible] the [illegible] of last September. His physician [illegible] months in Colorado would set him [illegible] feet. He left his wife and little girl at home.

When here six weeks his money was gone and he had the alternative of returning to his family to die or being supported here for six months, at least, and live.

No natural source of support. At first the office paid his board at the place he was staying, but later, at the physician's request, he was sent to a sanitarium, where he has been for over three months. Has been furnished milk and eggs while boarding. Has been given some clothes. An old tent has been fixed up for him. He has also been furnished with a physician.

During his stay at sanitarium he has gained 30 pounds, and will be able to care for himself by early summer.

Total cost to office $[illegible]

Mr ——— was brought to our attention about four months ago. He has been in the city about three years but up to that time had been able to support himself by odd jobs. This fall, after a poor summer he was not able to do such work as he could secure.

He is keeping house for himself in two rooms and at first all this association did for him was to send milk and eggs and occasionally groceries. Since the first of January we have also been paying his rent and giving him money for his provisions.

He is better now, and after the rest he has had this winter he will be able to work in the summer and take care of himself. The young fellow should have had sanitarium care for a few months but the expense was too great for the association to undertake.

Cost, $52.90.

Miss ——— came to Colorado Springs in September, 1908, with a return ticket good to October 31. On October 29 she called saying she was scarcely well enough to return. She was sent at once to a physician, who reported that she had only a fighting chance. Her constitution was not vigorous, both lungs were affected and she had been working up to that day. Physician further reported that if she returned she would die within a very short time.

At first an effort was made to board the patient at her friend's, with whom she had been staying, but this was found to be unwise because she could not get better there. She was soon sent to a sanitarium and has been there four and a half months. It will be at least eight months before she can take care of herself.

This was in many ways the most difficult of all these instances. The cost would be very heavy, the girl had only an even chance to get well, there was only four hours to decide as the return ticket would be invalid after that.

Could any other decision have been made?

It has cost us $176 and will cost at least $180 more.

Mr ———, wife and three small children came here about four months ago from the south. They were brought to our attention by a woman to whom they had applied for coal. They were found living in a two-roomed house near the railroad. The house leaked and was cold and they were without food.

Groceries were immediately sent and they were advised to find a warmer house, which they did. The man was in a very weak condition and was told by the doctor (who pronounced his case hopeless) that he must do no work but have a thorough rest.

His wife was unable to find work, and as there was a family and invalid husband to care for this association provided them with food, coal, milk, rent and medicine. He died February 3 of this year. His wife returned to her people.

Cost to this organization, $22.45.

Mr ——— came here in June 1908 with his wife and two children. During the summer he refused help through this organization. Beginning with November we have been able to raise for him from four local churches and one individual living out of town enough money to enable him to take the rest the physician whom we supplied, declared necessary. At the end of March he will be able to support himself.

Total cost, $126, of which only $7 was furnished from our funds.

Mr ——— came to this city in November 1907. He had a little income which was intrusted to us. For five months he lived in a tent and improved rapidly. He earned a little in that time. In April he went to Denver, but lost most of what he had gained and so returned here in November. Since then he has had good medical care and is improving slowly. He has a good chance to get well. He is a bright, ambitious young man of much possibility.

The interest in this young man lies in the fact that he shows how, when he tried to take care of himself before he was able he rapidly lost ground.

The expense connected with his care has been $58.01, of which his income furnished $29.88, work $2.60 and this organization $100.53.

Mr ——— came here several years ago. He has had the common experience: felt much better, gone to work too soon and broken down. His tuberculosis has now attacked his joints and the outlook is not good.

Friends and organizations in this city have looked out for him, friends and relatives from his home city have done the same. But the great length of time has made them all discouraged.

He has been helped by us only a little, furnishing clothes and something to eat, filling out what his other helpers could not furnish.

The striking feature of this instance is that if this young man had had good sanitarium care when he came here six years ago there is every reason to believe he would have been completely cured four years ago.

Cost to us, $19.50.

Mr ——— came to this city about one year ago. He was in a sanitarium in the east and was advised to come to Colorado.

At first he did light work. He was very willing and secured enough work, but his strength was not equal to the demands made upon it. He was offered a position on a ranch and he was furnished with the necessary clothes and [illegible] further. But he could not secure the necessary attention and broke down.

He was placed in a sanitarium in August. An operation was performed in October. In February he was admitted to the National Jewish sanitarium in Denver. All [illegible] since coming [illegible] could [illegible] been [illegible] take [illegible]

Total cost, $70.[illegible]

Mr ——— [illegible] this city two years ago. He was a [illegible] young man who was studying a profession. Willing to work at anything he has been able to support himself until lately. His effort to do this has been too much for [illegible]. He was brought to our attention after [illegible] several days.

BALLOTS BEING PREPARED

Will Be Sent to Printer Tomorrow. Time for Voters to Record Changes of Address

The work of preparing the official ballot for the city election on April 6 is now in progress at the office of City Clerk E. C. F. Whitaker, and the official forms will probably be sent to the printer tomorrow. Besides the names of the candidates for city offices on the Republican and Democratic tickets, there will be provision made on the ballot for the vote on the question "Shall Colorado Springs Become Antisaloon Territory?"

All voters who have changed their place of residence since being registered will have a chance to register their new address and thus reserve their right to vote at the office of County Clerk E C Shelden today and tomorrow, during the regular hours from 8 to 4 o clock. Yesterday the same opportunity was open and a number of voters visited the office and had their changes of address registered.

City Clerk Whitaker desires to notify the judges of election to report to him at once the loss of keys to the ballot boxes, so that the keys may be replaced by duplicates in time for the opening of the polls on Tuesday morning.

FAMILY IS QUARANTINED

Youngest Burns Child Has Scarlet Fever in Chicago. May Be Kept There Six Weeks

Quarantined at the home of a friend in Chicago, James F Burns and his family of Colorado Springs may be forced to remain in that city for at least six weeks on account of the illness of the youngest of the Burns children, who was taken with an attack of scarlet fever last week. Mrs. Burns went to Chicago on Monday of last week and on Friday the youngest child was taken ill. On Saturday the physician in charge pronounced it a case of scarlet fever and Mrs Burns at once summoned Mr Burns by telegram. Mr Burns left Saturday morning and on his arrival Sunday, found the family under quarantine.

Messages received yesterday by friends in this city did not state definitely that Mr Burns had entered the quarantine but it is understood that in any event he will remain in Chicago until he is allowed to bring the family back to this city.

TO BEGIN IMPROVEMENTS

Midland Will Send One Hundred Men West to Start New Track Work

Work will be started this morning on extensive improvements on the Colorado Midland railroad as the result of an inspection of the line by officials of the Burlington, which owns the controlling interest. One hundred tracklayers and ballasters left Colorado Springs yesterday for Buena Vista, from which point east the track improvements are to be made immediately. Within the next month about 600 men will be put to work on the track over the entire line laying new steel and ballast.

When these improvements are completed the Burlington will inaugurate daily standard Pullman sleeping car service between Chicago, St Louis and Kansas City over its own system proper and the Colorado Midland to California. In addition to the new through standard Pullman service two new limited trains of complete Pullman equipment will be installed between Denver and Grand Junction, also carrying through standard Pullmans to the coast.

MEMORIAL IN HONOR OF GLENCORA A. KINDIG

In honor of the late Glencora A. Kindig, who up to the time of her death last fall was a teacher in the Steele school, a memorial is being prepared by her friends. The memorial in the form of a plaque was especially designed by Miss Cook, an artist at the Van Briggle pottery. In the center of the design is represented the figure of a woman dispensing education and it is proposed that a small silver plate with a simple inscription be inserted in the plaque. The memorial is to be placed in the Steele school about Easter time.

FIRE CAUSES KNOWLES A LOSS OF ABOUT $600

A fire which gave the department a hard fight and caused a property loss of about $600, occurred about 9 o'clock last night in the barn and bake house behind the grocery store of George Knowles, 847 East Cache la Poudre street. The blaze was first discovered by Market Master A. L. Mosley, a neighbor, who at once turned in the alarm and notified Mr Knowles. Together they succeeded in rescuing three horses stabled in the building, but all the animals suffered more or less injury from the smoke and flames. The firemen from the north end and central fire stations responded and managed to confine the flames to the outbuildings.

The cause of the fire is not known but it is supposed to have originated from a fire in the bake shop.

ROCK ISLAND PREPARING FOR HEAVY TOURIST TRAVEL

"The Rock Island is preparing for exceptionally heavy tourist travel to Colorado this summer," said A. T. Abbott, division superintendent of the road upon his return yesterday from a general meeting of the superintendents in Chicago. He says that the Rock Island, in preparation for the summer rush, is buying a great deal of new equipment, including new passenger cars of all steel construction, and locomotives. The summer schedule is now under consideration.

THE PNEUMONIA SEASON

MORE DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA THAN FROM TUBERCULOSIS.

Pneumonia an Infectious Disease. It Can Be Prevented by a Favorable Record.

From the Des Moines Register [illegible]

"Why has this season of the year become known as the pneumonia season? Why during the closing week of the old year were there more deaths in Chicago and New York from pneumonia than tuberculosis? Why are pneumonia and related bronchial troubles beginning to take the place of tuberculosis as the dread scourge of city life? Simply and solely because we are devoting too much ingenuity and energy to dodging the fresh and invigorating winter air that every twelve months refrigerates our latitude.

It is believed now that pneumonia is an infectious disease, and that in the cities where the death rate is growing so rapidly it is communicated in the heated and crowded cars. A nickel is so small, and the cold air is so chilling, that the American people are forgetting how to walk. The old time red that burned the cheek of childhood does not visit a mature face on an average of once in the twelve months, not even the red of a chilly and pinched nose. We are getting afraid of the climate, and as a result, the climate is taking its revenge.

The mere habit of turning up coat collars has killed thousands of people, and the fur boa has a long list to its account, for no part of the human body becomes delicate more quickly because of superfluous covering than the throat. And yet we are multiplying devices for turning up more coat collars. It is not too early to recognize that this is all wrong, that our climate is here to stay, and that if we are going to live in it with comfort we must accommodate ourselves to it. It will pay to keep on good terms with the climate."

A great many have learned that pneumonia may be avoided by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy whenever they have a cold. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for colds and grip during the epidemics of the past few years we have yet to learn of a single one having had pneumonia, which should certainly convince the most skeptical of the value of that preparation. Its remarkable cures of colds have made it a staple article of trade and commerce throughout the United States and in many foreign countries.

FRIENDS PAY FINAL TRIBUTE TO MRS. DWINELL

Sorrowing relatives and friends gathered in the First Congregational church yesterday afternoon to pay tribute to the memory of Mrs Ella L. C. Dwinell, who died recently in southern California. The Rev James B Gregg, pastor, read appropriate selections from the psalms and new testament and made an address bearing testimony to the fact that Mrs Dwinell had been a consistent, faithful and esteemed member of his parish for 22 years, and that in the community she had exerted a wholesome influence owing to her integrity, sound good sense, warm sympathies, business ability and faithful discharge of responsibilities of all sorts.

The Rev C B Wilcox, pastor of the First Methodist church, offered prayer, and Mrs E P Taliaferro and Miss Josephine Comstock sang "Abide With Me" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

The urn containing the ashes of Mrs Dwinell rested upon the communion table surrounded by a profusion of beautiful flowers, the offering of her many friends in this city. At the close of the service, the casket was sent to Charlotte, Mich., where it will be placed in the family burial plot at the cemetery.

Superior accommodations at greatly reduced rates are offered by the Cliff House, Manitou, until June 1.

ITALIAN JOURNALIST STOPS IN SPRINGS ON 4 YEARS' WALK AROUND THE WORLD

On a long distance tramp which puts the feats of the pedestrian Weston in the shade, Professor Alfredo Battelli, an Italian journalist and scientist, is in Colorado Springs on his way around the world. Battelli is one of the four newspaper men who left New York on October 7 last on an international walking tour that will carry them to every country under the sun. Battelli's companions who are going by different routes, are Silvio Ortonas, a Frenchman, Adolph Schneider, a German and Albert Wilckes, an American. Battelli, who is a native of Rome, Italy, is representing "La Tribuna," the oldest newspaper of the Italian capital and several Italian papers of New York, Philadelphia and other American cities. He is also working in the interests of the Geographical society of Rome.

Has Walked 2,000 Miles

Already Battelli has [illegible] about 2,000 miles of his world trip and he is

PROF. ALFREDO BATTELLI,
who Has Reached Colorado Springs on His Tramp Around the World.

enjoying the adventures of his long distance tramp. Although he does not speak English very fluently, he is able to make known the purposes of his trip and is quite at home with foreigners as he has a thorough knowledge of Italian, French, German, Spanish, Greek and other languages. He and his partners in the adventure make whatever money they can along the route by giving lectures and selling postcards bearing their pictures and telling of the purpose of their singular undertaking. The four will meet in San Francisco and from there will make a trip to Alaska and back before sailing for the islands of the Pacific including Hawaii and the Philippines. Thence they will go to Japan, Korea, Manchuria and China and work westward through Asia and Europe to the British Isles.

At the end of the world trip, which they expect will require from three to four years, the four men will write a book which they expect to publish in four languages. This book will contain much information of a scientific, geographical and sociological nature besides an account of their personal adventures and experiences on the way. Professor Battelli says he would like to have the company of an American on his trip through this country as a companion who could talk English fluently would be of great help to him.

Talked With Roosevelt.

The following list of cities which Battelli has visited since leaving New York will show the route he has traveled: Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Cumberland, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Omaha, Des Moines, Lincoln and Denver. In Washington he had the honor of an interview with Theodore Roosevelt and was given a reception by the press club of that city.

Battelli is standing the rigors of the trip in fine shape and has increased in weight since he started on his long walk. On many occasions it has so happened that he has been forced to sleep out of doors. He is a rugged looking little man not more than five feet three inches in height but unusually stout and hearty and with the color of perfect health in his face.

He will leave Colorado Springs today for Pueblo and from there will go to Salt Lake en route to Sacramento.

The reduced rates now offered by the Cliff house, Manitou, cannot be equaled for the accomodations.

COLLEGE RECITAL—Under the auspices of the Colorado College school of music, a recital will be given in Perkins hall at 4 p. m. today by Mrs. Briscoe and Dean Hale. The public is invited. As next week is Easter vacation week, there will be no recital next Tuesday. A little later, Mr Ekengren will repeat the clarinet solos given last Tuesday afternoon.

The Gazette is the only newspaper in Colorado Springs which receives the full report of the Associated Press every day of the week.

TUESDAY, MARCH 30, 1909.

A CAUSE THAT DEMANDS HELP.

THE Associated Charities has sent out a circular letter appealing for additional funds with which to carry on its relief work among indigent tuberculars, and accompanying the letter is a little pamphlet which ought to be widely circulated and carefully read. It contains brief descriptions of a few of the cases of this kind with which the association has dealt, and in order that the urgency of the need may be better understood we print the pamphlet in full in today's paper.

Thousands of victims of tuberculosis come to Colorado Springs every year from all parts of the country. It is not a pleasure trip with them, but a matter of life or death. Most of them are supplied with funds sufficient to provide proper care, or are able to support themselves by light work, but a great many arrive with barely enough money to pay a month's expenses. Some are utterly unable to work and realize the fact; others have been deluded into a mistaken belief that some mysterious magic of the Colorado climate will put them on their feet in a few days or weeks and enable them to become self-supporting. Bitter experience soon reveals the error. Rest is as essential to the recovery of a consumptive as are pure air and nourishing food. But even if they were able to work, where is the employment to be had?

MUST BE MOVED. Here we have the condition. What is to be done about it? Those people must be cared for some way, by somebody, for a few days or weeks at least—more often for several months or they will die. This can not be done without money. If the case is hopeless the only course is to send the patient back home, but this requires money. If there is a chance of saving a life by providing necessary comfort and medical attention, every consideration of humanity demands that it be done—but again this requires money.

It is beside the point to deny the responsibility of the community. We advertise our health-giving climate; we invite tuberculars to come here and be cured, as thousands have been cured before. We can not discriminate between rich and poor. It is just as important to save the life of the man who is penniless as that of the man who has millions. The only difference between them is the difference of dollars, which doesn't count much on the brink of the grave. Colorado Springs has an excellent charities association, supported in part by contributions from the city and the county, and partly by private subscriptions, but the ordinary revenues are not enough to carry on the usual charity work and the work among indigent tuberculars too. More money is needed at once, and this is the reason for the present appeal.

The average cost of handling the eleven cases described in the circular which we reprint, was about $115, but the results certainly justify the expenditure, for eleven lives were saved. Somebody must help these cases, and The Associated Charities is doing it, but it is up to the people to provide the funds. Send your subscription to The Associated Charities, 218 Hagerman Building, and do it now.

CASTRO ON THE WARPATH.

"I must leave that God and destiny call me back to Venezuela. I intend to accomplish my mission there, even though it involves revolution." So saith Cipriano Castro, deposed dictator of Venezuela. Incidentally, he likens himself to Napoleon returning from Elba to reconquer his country. Also he traces a resemblance between himself and Francis I. Here it is: "Like Francis I, all is lost save honor. I am going back to Venezuela. My country needs me and my mission is there."

If the present government of Venezuela is wise it will show the Hon. Cip. just how much it needs him by welcoming him at the landing place with a pair of handcuffs and a patrol wagon. He is entirely too dangerous a citizen to remain at large. For several years he ruled the country with despotic power and the result is familiar to everybody who reads the papers. The courts and press became entirely subservient to him; a judge or an editor who dared oppose him found himself hustled to jail and his property confiscated. Every industry was plundered to fatten Castro's pocketbook. Foreign concessions were annulled by farcical legal process after the holders had spent their good money in development work, and Castro seized the property, operated it as a government monopoly, and kept the proceeds for himself.

RESULTS OF CASTRO'S RULE. It is not surprising that this policy paralyzed the whole country, caused endless poverty and suffering among the people and brought about foreign complications which time and again threatened war. But Castro, secure in his capital hidden away in the mountains, defiantly announced that foreign warships couldn't reach him and there the matter ended. In turn he insulted and bullied the United States, France, Italy and Great Britain, but finally when he tried the same tactics with The Netherlands the bluff was called and war would have been a certainty if the dictator had not left the country.

The new President of Venezuela, Gomez, has no more valid claim to his office than Castro had, for in each case power was acquired by force rather than by election. Perhaps if Gomez had things his own way long enough he would turn out as bad as his predecessor, but thus far he has made a good impression abroad by satisfying the claims of foreign creditors, and has won the support of his people by easing their burdens. Under these conditions it is decidedly to the advantage of other nations to uphold Gomez and prevent Castro regaining power, for it is certain that a change at this time would mean a return to the old era of misrule.

SUMMER TRAVEL INDICATIONS.

MANAGER W. S. DUNNING of the Antlers Hotel brings the news from California, where he has spent a month, that tourists will come earlier and in greater numbers this year than ever before, his opinion being based on observations while in the coast cities. He predicts that April and May will see an unusually large influx of visitors, and that Colorado Springs and other Colorado cities will enjoy a more prosperous season in June, July, August and September than ever before.

At this season of the year the people of the Pikes Peak region always begin to figure on the prospects for summer business, and therefore the views of Mr. Dunning are of interest, for if anyone is in a position to foresee travel conditions it is the hotel man. That is his business and he makes it a study. It is as much the duty of a hotel manager to feel the public pulse in this regard and make preparations accordingly as it is for the manager of a store to consider trade prospects before laying in his stock for the season.

Mr. Dunning is not alone in predicting that we will have a prosperous summer. Western railroad men are a unit in declaring that travel will be heavier than usual this year and have made preparations accordingly. Satisfactory rates have been granted and new equipment soon will be put on. There is no doubt that the Elks convention in Los Angeles, the G. A. R. reunion in Salt Lake City, the exposition at Seattle, and, closer to home, the convention of the National Educational Association at Denver, will draw tens of thousands of people westward during the summer. As usual, the majority of these people will stop off here either going or coming and this business, added to the so-called regular patronage which we always count on, should make the season above par. Therefore it is safe for those who cater especially to tourists to make provision for a good season.

INCONSISTENCIES OF THE LIQUOR ADVOCATES.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

The figures given out last week by the liquor interests do not tally with the figures given out this week. Last week they were asking the taxpayers if they were willing to lose the $17,000 revenue from liquor licenses. Now they are proclaiming that it will cost the taxpayers $50,000 if the city goes dry.

Last week I took the trouble to get the exact figures. The city now receives $16,000 per year from the liquor dealers. The city spent last year $33,000 for police protection. Inasmuch as 27 per cent of the arrests were on charges in which drunkenness figured in some way or other, 27 per cent of the cost of police protection is chargeable to drunkenness, or about $9,000.00. The net difference in favor of the city is only $7,000. Moreover, the $9,000.00 is but the initial cost, for the heavy expense of criminals is not in the police court, but with those cases which go to the county and district courts, and which frequently cost the taxpayers enormous sums. It is the testimony of experts that the sale of intoxicants is costly for taxpayers.

But why make money the chief thing or appeal? Are we to place money above morals and men?

In private, paid workers of the liquor interests are saying that if whisky is voted out of the drug stores, we shall have open saloons. In public, these same interests are declaring that "Colorado Springs today is antisaloon territory," "under the provision made by the founders of the city." As a fact, saloons are not mentioned in those deeds. The deeds prescribe "that intoxicating liquors shall never be manufactured, sold, or otherwise disposed of, as a beverage, in any place of public resort in or upon the premises hereby granted." Every drug store selling liquor as a beverage has already violated the agreement as much as a saloon could violate it. If the agreement is being violated by drug stores, what is to hinder saloons? The only thing that has hindered is the fear of the Colorado Springs company. But why should we insist that the Colorado Springs company give itself the labor and tremendous expense which would be involved in furnishing us the protection we can give ourselves by law if we vote "yes?" If we believe that the Colorado Springs company did the right thing in protecting the city against "saloons," as the liquor interests prefer to say, then let us be consistent and vote to make our laws harmonize with our deeds.

NEWS AS NEWS.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I am a subscriber to our local morning and evening papers and am friendly to both, but I protest against the publication of columns of matter in the evening paper as "news" that is palpably advertising matter and paid for by the liquor interests. Let us have fair play at the hands of the press, so far as the news columns are concerned. Editorially the paper that wants to take blood money may say what it pleases in return for the consideration, taking the consequences of the attitude assumed.

IN THE HANDS OF HIS FRIENDS.

From the Washington Star.

The public official whose salary is under congressional discussion realizes what it means for a statesman to be in the hands of his friends.

NEW MEXICO BARRED.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

New Mexico's progress toward statehood seems to have come to a definite halt. The House had passed the necessary bill, but the Senate refused. If the people of New Mexico are not pleased, they may reflect that they have themselves to blame. There was a general sentiment in favor of admission, although the matter was of little importance to any but the residents of the territory. To others there was little concern as to whether New Mexico became a state or remained a territory. New Mexico as a state would not have changed the political balance. It would have done nothing in particular beyond supplying a name for another battleship. Nevertheless, the plea for admission seemed to have every prospect of success.

The sudden change in sentiment is ascribed to land and timber frauds in the territory and the attitude toward them of territorial officials. The department of justice sent a man to investigate certain evil reports. He found conditions as bad as rumor had pictured them. He found also that he was hampered in every possible way. Information was withheld from him, threats received by him, and his mail was tampered with so that the rogues he was after became aware of every move contemplated against them.

WHERE THE SUNBEAMS GROW

"It's true, the weather's most unholy, with rain and mud, and mud and slush; sometimes the rain is falling slowly, and sometimes falling with a rush; and so we all stand round together and CHEER UP! look as sour as last year's kraut, and what we say about the weather is picturesque, without a doubt. But Time the same old gait is joggin', along the same old weary ways; the spring is nearing the toboggan, and soon will come the summer days; and then the sun will simply fry us, and, as we sizzle in the heat, we'll wish, with language scarcely pious, for just such rain and slush and sleet! So, friend, just button up your jacket, and spring a smile, and don't repine; the rain that's raising such a racket, tomorrow will take in its sign.

You used to go to a custom tailor to have your clothes made, you liked the idea of having an exclusive pattern, of wearing clothes distinctively your own. DUNN TAKES BLAIR'S PLACE

Candidate for Alderman on Good Government Ticket—Instructions to Voters Being Prepared.

With one exception, all the nominees on the Good Government and Non-partisan tickets have accepted the nominations and decided to make the race. Charles Blair, aldermanic candidate in Ward 1, on the Good Government ticket, declined the nomination, and Percy Dunn was named to fill the vacancy. Instructions to voters are being prepared and the ballots will be printed in a few days.

In addition to the election of city officials, Colorado City voters will vote on these two propositions: "Shall Colorado City become antisaloon territory?" and "Shall the franchise of the Colorado City Water company be renewed for a period of 20 years?"

The Colorado City Water company franchise is at present owned by Anthony Bott, one of Colorado City's oldest and best-known citizens. For some time he has furnished water to residents on the south side. Many of the aldermen demand numerous concessions such as the use of the company's water plugs for fire purposes, water for parks, etc. It is believed that Mr. Bott will grant the desired concessions, and it is also probable that he may turn the company's water system over to the city in the near future.

GAZETTE PRAISED FOR LOCAL OPTION STAND

LEAGUE AND MINISTERS PASS RESOLUTIONS.

People Are Urged to Vote Regardless of Weather Conditions Next Tuesday

Resolutions commending The Gazette for its stand on the local option question were adopted yesterday by the Ministerial association and the Local Option league. Following is the resolution unanimously adopted by the ministers:

"Resolved, That the association most heartily appreciates the moral courage of the management of The Colorado Springs Gazette in coming out boldly for the present local option movement, notwithstanding the known extreme pressure brought to bear upon the said management to get the paper to take the other side or to be quiescent.

"E. H. EILES, Secretary."

The resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Local Option league last night at the Y. M. C. A. follows:

"Resolved, That the Local Option league most heartily commends the management of The Gazette for the generous support given the movement now on foot to rid our city of the terrible evils of the liquor traffic.

"C. B. LAUTERMAN,
"J. D. GLOVER,
"Committee."

The Ministerial association also adopted the following resolution:

"The Ministerial association of Colorado Springs and vicinity, understanding the dire results to the moral welfare of Colorado Springs should the people be misled into voting 'No,' urgently calls upon the Christian people of this city, and all who are interested in its welfare, to turn out en masse early Tuesday morning, April 6, and vote 'Yes.' Regardless of weather vote early and vote 'Yes.'"

MUCH INTEREST IN DECISION

State Supreme Court Will Rule Next Thursday on the Unit of a Town

Much interest is manifested locally in a decision of the state supreme court, which probably will be rendered next Thursday, regarding the unit of a town in voting on the saloon question.

The case being tested is that of a saloonkeeper of Denver, who, represented by Attorney John M. Waldron, claims that, inasmuch as his precinct went "wet" at a recent election, he should be allowed to maintain a saloon, even though the ward went "dry." Attorney Waldren attacks not only the interpretation by the lower courts of the statute affecting the case, but the constitutionality of the law itself.

If the plaintiff is sustained, certain precincts in this city, by voting to go wet, may still have the liquor drug stores even if the entire town is voted dry. If the plaintiff loses, then a vote that the entire town shall go dry will close all precincts, even though they are carried by the "wets." These precincts compose almost all the business section of Colorado Springs. Petitions circulated by the liquor interests were filed with the city clerk, asking that the question as to these specific precincts be placed on the ballot. This was done through fear that the town would go dry.

THREATENS OFFICER LYONS

George Staples, a Colored Man, Attempts to Resist Arrest With Rifle—Assault Charged.

George Staples, colored, will be tried before Justice A. P. Toombs this week on a charge of assault, preferred by his wife. When Constable H. H. Lyons went to arrest Staples near his home, north of Cragmor sanitarium, Sunday afternoon, the defendant intrenched himself behind a pile of rocks, and, armed with a rifle and 50 rounds of ammunition, threatened to shoot the officer if he approached him. Lyons made a detour and surprised Staples from behind, disarming him and taking him to jail.

The prisoner will also probably be charged with resisting an officer.

BERGEY PREDICTS A RUSH

Expects Big Travel at Wagon Wheel Gap. Many Reservations Already Made at Hotel

An unusually large tourist season for Colorado is predicted by Ellwood Bergey, manager of the Hot Springs hotel at Wagon Wheel Gap, who is registered at the Antlers. The Hot Springs hotel, which is owned by the Colorado Springs company, will be opened this season on June 15, and judging from the large number of bookings made by Manager Bergey during the last month, the popular resort will be more liberally patronized this season than ever before. Mr. Bergey states that for several weeks reservations have been coming in from parties all over the country. The hotel has accommodation for about 100 guests. A large amount of money has been spent during the winter in refurnishing the building.

Among the many attractions at Wagon Wheel Gap, in addition to the hot baths and mineral waters, are the magnificent scenery and the splendid opportunities for fishing. One of the finest fish hatcheries in the state is in operation there. A new scenic attraction—a national park about 10 miles from the hotel—has been opened and is connected with Wagon Wheel Gap by an excellent trail. Those who have seen the park declare it to be the finest in the way of natural scenery and rock formations in the entire Rocky Mountain region.

TO TAKE SCHOOL CENSUS

Work Will Be Started on April 10. Five Persons Are to Be Employed

The canvass for the annual school census of Colorado Springs will begin on April 10 and, under the requirements of the state law, is to be completed within 20 days. The census last year showed 7,800 persons in the city between the school ages of 6 and 21 years, and of this number about 5,800 are attending school. The census districts will this year be the same as those covered by each school, and in addition to a house-to-house canvass the census cards will be placed with each principal for checking. Five persons will be employed in taking the census.

LARGE ORE BODY EXPOSED

Trilby Mines Company Encounters Quantities of Ore Which Averages $18 to Ton.

Special to The Gazette.

ALTMAN, Colo., March 28.—One of the largest ore bodies to date on Bull hill is that under development between the tenth and eleventh levels of the main shaft on the Trilby and Ben Harrison lode mining claims on its southern slope, owned and operated by the Trilby Mines company. By actual measurement, the ore is broken on an average 46 feet wide and requires little sorting to make a product that averages $18 a ton. Working a light force, Manager James T. Stewart is shipping better than 200 tons a week, and the ore is consigned to the Golden Cycle mill at Colorado City.

ORE ENCOUNTERED IN ROOSEVELT TUNNEL

FIND IS ON THE EARL LODE MINING CLAIM.

Owner Confident That With Further Development Values Will Rich Pay Basis

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., March 29.—An important development of the past week at the Roosevelt deep drainage tunnel has been the cutting of a granite schist vein, heavily stained with fluorite and carrying low gold values. The vein was encountered at a point approximately 5,400 feet from the mouth of the tunnel, and the measurements taken show the vein to lie on the Earl lode mining claim, United States survey No. 10,439, on Grouse mountain.

This property is owned by Dockstader and others of this city, who report higher values obtaining from surface workings than the $3.60 given the sample taken by Superintendent McIlwee. This sample, however, was taken across the full width of the four-foot vein. The property adjoining the Earl—the Dutch and Little Pittsburg, owned by H. P. Relton of this city—has shown pay values from surface workings, and the owner is confident that with further development a mine will be opened up in this southern section of the district.

SPECULATIVE INTEREST MATERIALLY WIDENED

Large Increase in Orders for Stocks Received Stock Market Unusually Active.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The stock market today fulfilled the promise of a wider speculative interest, which was contained in the sudden revival on Saturday. The effect of the rapid advance in prices at the end of the week was to bring in a large increase of orders for stocks today, which were expected in the market with many symptoms of speculative excitement. The volume of the market was run up by noon to half a million shares, thus rather exceeding the recent average for a full day's business. Brokers found themselves with orders on their hands when the market opened for purchase of anywhere from 100 to 5,000 shares of stock, the latter figure representing individual purchases in several cases, as reported on the floor.

Discounts receded in all the foreign money markets, presaging the expected accumulation of funds which will follow the April settlements and the increase in confidence resulting from the Balkan settlement.

The speculative element continued to lay much stress on the early return to the financial district of E. H. Harriman and the conferences which have taken place between that gentleman and President Louis Hill of the Great Northern. The Harriman stocks were prominent features of strength, Southern Pacific, in fact, selling at the highest price of record, while Union Pacific touched a price within a small fraction of the highest made since the panic. Another factor in the strength of the market was the report from Washington of influential efforts being made to expedite the progress of the tariff bill and the hope thus aroused that this matter will be disposed of at an early date.

There was much discussion of the anthracite labor outlook and the professed belief that a costly conflict would be avoided was a helpful influence on the whole market, and on Reading in particular.

At the advanced level of prices today there was very heavy selling to realize at all stages, and this had some ultimate effect on the rise. Advances in prices of copper and lead were announced during the day. Reports from the steel trade indicate that in spite of the dullness in that trade, general orders for structural material in March were the largest for any month in the history of the trade.

Bonds were firm. Total sales, par value, $5,798,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

WHEAT CLOSES STRONG WITH PRICES AT TOP

Weekly Statistics Responsible for Buoyant Tone—Corn, Oats and Provisions Strong.

CHICAGO, March 29.—In the wheat market today, the May delivery advanced to within ¼ of the best mark for the session, while July rallied by ⅝ of equaling the top figure. The close was strong at almost the highest point of the day. Corn, oats and provisions also closed strong.

Weekly statistics were the chief reason for the buoyant tone, which was manifest in the wheat pit during the greater part of the day. World's shipments showed a decrease of more than 3,000,000 bushels, compared with the previous week, the amount of breadstuff on ocean passage decreased nearly 2,000,000 bushels and the visible supply in the country decreased 668,000 bushels. In addition, demand for cash wheat here and at Kansas City was brisk and this had a bullish effect on the market late in the day. Sentiment was a trifle bullish at the start, because of the poor response of the Liverpool market to the local advance Saturday, but the buying of May by a few scattered shorts soon caused a rally. The market was also supported by the leading bull. Toward mid-day the market became quite weak again for a short time, owing to profit taking, but soon rallied once more on buying brought out by the improvement in the cash situation. On this bulge, May advanced to $1.19¼ and July to $1.03¾. The close was strong at net gains for the day of ¼ to ⅝@1. May closed at $1.19¼ and July at $1.03¾.

Blight weakness was manifested at the opening of the corn market, but a firmer tone soon developed, and the close was firm at net gains for the day of ¼@¾ to ⅝, being at 71¼@71⅝ and July at 66.

Trade in oats was rather dull. The market ruled firm at net gains of ⅛ to ⅜@¾, with May at 54¾ and July at 47¾.

Provisions were rather weak early in the day, but rallied later. At the close prices were 2½ to 15 above Saturday's close.

C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." Sold by all druggists.

Rock Foolishness

"When attacked by a cough or a cold, or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge, of Empire, Ga. "I have used New Discovery seven years and I know it is the best remedy on earth for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Known the world over as the King of throat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at all druggists at 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Bill Nye, in his earlier days, once approached the manager of a lecture bureau with an application for employment, and was asked if he had ever done anything in that line. "Oh, yes," said Bill. "What have you done?" "Well," replied Bill, "my last job was in a dime museum, sitting in a barrel with the top of my head sticking out—posing as the largest ostrich egg in captivity."

How can any person risk taking some unknown cough remedy when Foley's Honey and Tar costs them no more? It is a safe remedy, contains no harmful drugs, and cures the most obstinate coughs and colds. Why experiment with your health? Insist upon having the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar. Sold by all druggists.

Fresh Meats
A critical eye, a fastidious taste, and a good judge of good food never has fault to find with our meats. Our cuts are generous and fair and always made to suit the desires of our customers.
Our meats are not the wild western meat that is hard to cut and still harder to digest. It is young, tender, toothsome, and wholesome.
